DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 3 and 5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 3 and 5-7 are indefinite because it is not clear as to what high-density rewritable optical disc is being referred to. Note claim 1 is directed to a high-density optical disc. Further it is not clear as to what difference exactly is meant. There is no description in the claims that would describe or identify the differences. Clarification is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-6 and 8-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Maeda (5,915,263).

Maeda discloses the invention as claimed. Figs. 1-24 show the high-density optical disc having encrypted data (encoded data) recorded in the data recording area according to a discontinuous format (see Fig. 1 and column 2 lines 5-20 that shows information being recorded in discontinuous segments on the recording area of the optical disk), and recording and reproducing the data on the disk by encoding and decoding the recorded or reproduced information, as set forth in the claims.

Further the reference teaches: the encrypted data (encoded data) include synchronous data, address data (see for example Fig. 9) and radius information (taken to be position information that would be inherent to the absolute position information signal, see column 9, lines 55-60), as set forth in claims 2-6, 8- 10, 12, 13, 16, and it should be noted that the sync and address information will be inherently different for each disk (for example depending on the format, defective sectors, location of data etc.), as set forth in claims 3, 5 and 6; encrypting the data with synchronous data before the data is recorded, is inherent to the recording process in order to recording the information on the medium, as set forth in claim 11; decrypting (decoding) the reproduction information on the basis of the synchronous data and other sub code data (by the encoder/decoder unit 8, such as in a decoding process of EFM or CIRC etc. , see column 10), as set forth in claims 17-23. See also the description of the apparatus and figures for further details relating to the limitations as set forth in the claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 7, 14 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Maeda (5,915,263) in view of common knowledge in the art.

As described above, Maeda discloses the invention substantially as claimed, however does not specifically describe that the optical disk is a blue-ray disk (as set forth in claim 7), or the data being recorded includes moving pictures (as set forth in claims 14 and 15).

It is well known in the art to have blue-ray optical disk as the optical recording medium for increasing the capacity of the medium, since they have a shorter recording wavelength of the laser than DVDs and CDs. Also it is well know to have moving picture such as a movie etc. recorded on the optical disk.

It would have obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to include a blue-ray disc as the optical disk of Maeda, in order to increase the capacity of the medium. Also it would have been obvious to record video information such as a movie that include moving pictures in order to expand the capability of the apparatus of Maeda and thereby provide a more versatile apparatus.
